DOJ,

I do not believe that the settlement that the DOJ and Microsoft have agreed to has gone far enough to punish Microsoft for its monopolistic behavior. The company was clearly found guilty of monopolistic behavior and for the government to "roll over" for them is simply not good for the software industry in the long run.

At the minimum, the DOJ should insist that Microsoft make its file formats publically available and thus, no longer, proprietary. This would include the file formats for Word, Excel, Powerpoint, movie and audio formats, etc.

I thank you for your time.
